“ The support and capacity building that local organizations received through the Konbit project are an important contribution to the country. More civil society organizations are better structured and equipped to be sustainable and participate in Haiti's development. Moreover, the exchanges during the roundtables and other Konbit activities enabled IDEH to benefit from other organizations experience, to better adapt to the real context, be proactive and better equipped to overcome the obstacles we may encounter. As a result, IDEH has changed the way we serve the community we work with.
